

THE ARTIST

João Ricardo de Barros Oliveira, born in Viana do Castelo, Portugal, works in Portugal and Berlin, Germany, where he centralises the development of his activity as a sound sculptor. He dedicates himself predominantly to the creation of new sounds and instruments. His work ranges from sculptures to the conception of musical instruments and 'sonorous objects', constructed from materials and items that have been revived from rubbish. The creation of sculptural objects capable of producing sounds with exclusive identity, which are never complete and always evolving, is his concern of aesthetic and sound experimentation. The development of sound languages is a project that allies itself to the transformation of rubbish into sounding art objects.

João Ricardo de Barros Oliveira has collaborated with various Portuguese and international artists. He has participated in numerous international music festivals, composed music for movies and has presented his music on radio and television in Norway, Portugal, Spain, Germany, and in the United States.
